UPCOMING EVENT - PERTH

Sir Rod Eddington

Chairman, Infrastructure Australia

Sir Rod Eddington is one of Australia's most experienced and accomplished business leaders. His career began in transport and aviation in 1979 when he joined the Swire Group and Cathay Pacific from Oxford University, and went on to be CEO of Cathay Pacific, Ansett and British Airways, before retiring in late 2005 to return to Australia.

In 2005, Sir Rod was awarded a Knighthood by the British Government for services to civil aviation. In December 2006, he completed a study for the British Government on the links between transport and the economy, before conducting in 2008 a similar investigation and report for the Victorian Government, the "East-West Link Needs Assessment" transport study.

Sir Rod will be addressing the issue of challenges ahead for Australian infrastructure.
