Jobs Forum Joke: Small Business Excluded

Hi

Sometimes we wonder about commonsense. Where does it disappear to?

In today's Future Jobs Forum, being run by the Gillard government, there are NO small business speakers presenting in the discussion panels. Yet 88% of private-sector workers work in small businesses.

You'd think that commonsense would dictate that small business would be at the centre of all discussion, with strong small business input. But no—it's a big union, big government and big business pontification exercise. I couldn't help myself and have done bit of a 'spray' against this in Business Spectator.

Someone's gotta shake the tree a bit!
